

In the upper left hand corner of this page you are greeted by a Notman photograph of my great-grandfather, William J. Stairs, looking at his pocket watch and symbolizing timeliness. Each page on BeEarly.com has a photograph either of an immortal financial legend or of a living great destined for The Hall of Fame. (Click on the names below the photographs to read about these fascinating characters.) We have been inspired by this eclectic group and hope that visiting BeEarly.com will prove to be a great intellectual and moneymaking experience for you. Our goal on BeEarly.com is to identify evolving macro trends early and then come up with relevant investment strategies and moneymaking ideas for institutional and individual investors alike. We are located in Ottawa, Canada's Capital, so our investment focus will be "Canada – centric" with an emphasis on exceptional Canadian situations. Currently we are very bullish on Canada with particular focus on the resources sector of the market.

We wish to promote civilized discussion amongst our cyber friends and for this we rely on your thoughtful contributions. You are welcome to submit thoughts, opinions, moneymaking ideas and critiques on any and all aspects of investing to be published on our Blogs page. We are particularly interested in receiving revealing comment and intelligence from investment managers, consultants, technical analysts, strategists, engineers, geologists, economists, lawyers, chartered accountants, traders and the legion of informed individuals who are trying to thrive, survive and have fun in the battle for investment survival. We respect requests for anonymity.
